San Luis Obispo, CA -- The California State University Board of Trustees unanimously approved incoming Cal Poly President Jeffrey Armstrong's contract on Wednesday, making him the highest paid president in the 23-campus system. The 51-year-old Armstrong, who will assume the Cal Poly post on February 1, will receive an annual salary of $350,000.

In addition to his salary, he will receive a $30,000 annual supplement from the Cal Poly Foundation, up to $1,000 a month car allowance and a temporary housing stipend of up to $5,000 a month while his future home, the University House, is being renovated.
