

Sadiq Khan, first Muslim elected mayor of London, celebrates victory with faith leaders

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS / Sunday, May 8, 2016, 12:18 AM

A A A

SHARE THIS URL

nydn.us/1QVvFfg

POOL/REUTERS

Sadiq Khan (l.) and his wife Saadiya attend the signing ceremony for the newly elected Mayor of London.

RELATED STORIES

Sadiq Khan becomes London's first Muslim mayor

Sadiq Khan has a simple, striking message for Londoners: He'll be a mayor for people of all faiths.

SADIQ KHAN BECOMES LONDON'S FIRST MUSLIM MAYOR

Khan celebrated his landslide election victory Saturday in a ceremony at an Anglican cathedral accompanied by Christian and Jewish leaders. They gave Khan a standing ovation as he pledged to be an approachable everyman for his

MOS

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

city of 8.2 million — including more than a million residents who, like him, happen to be Muslim.

“I’m determined to lead the most transparent, engaged and accessible administration London has ever seen,” said Khan, the son of Pakistani-born immigrants who became a civil rights lawyer and London’s first Muslim member of Parliament.

TAGS: london , united kingdom , religion

Land da

More vi

JOIN THE CONVERSATION:

Test
Jum
cros

PC Ri

- Media Kit
- Home Delivery
- Newsletters
- Businesses
- Place an Ad
- About our Ads
- Contact Us
- Careers
- FAQ's
- Feeds
- Site Map

Use of this website signifies your agreement to the Terms of Service and Privacy Policy.
© Copyright 2016 NYDailyNews.com. All rights reserved.