In a video posted to YouTube on Tuesday, a Black Lives Matter activist declares that it's now "open season" for killing white people and police officers. Showing an image of black people standing on the U.S. flag, the host of the BlogTalkRadio program talks about "picking off" police officers.

"And," the host says, "there's nothing" that white people can do about it. "His day is up," the unidentified host adds, speaking of white people.

"We will witness more executions and killing of white people and cops than we ever have before," the host said. "It's about to go down," added the host, referring to the murder of Harris County Deputy Sheriff Darren Goforth and the Virginia shooting in which two employees of a television station were gunned down. The host of the program even found Goforth's murder "funny."

"It's open season on killing white people and crackers," the host added, echoing sentiments issued by leaders of the radical New Black Panther Party. The poster of the video, an individual who calls himself "Col. Hannibal Smith" of illwriteit.com, said that BlogTalkRadio "promotes terrorism" for allowing their services to be used by the group.

This is not the first time radical groups have issued calls for murder. As we have reported many times, leaders of the New Black Panther Party have called for white people to be murdered. One even advocated murdering white babies by bombing nurseries.

In 2013, we reported that an employee of the Department of Homeland Security advocated genocide on his personal website. "Warfare is eminent, and in order for Black people to survive the 21st century, we are going to have to kill a lot of whites – more than our christian (sic) hearts can possibly count," Ayo Kimathi wrote.

Recently, Black Lives Matter protesters were recorded chanting, "pigs in a blanket, fry 'em like bacon," a clear call for violence against police. The group claims they weren't calling for violence, but the claim appears to have fallen on deaf ears.

Speaking with BlackSphere Executive Director Kevin Jackson, Fox News' Elizabeth Hasselbeck wondered why the #BlackLivesMatter protest movement has not been labeled a hate group. Jackson agreed that it should be designated a hate group, but it appears the movement may fit the definition of domestic terrorists according to the FBI.

Citing U.S. code, the FBI says that domestic terrorism has three main characteristics. First, it must "involve acts dangerous to human life that violate federal or state law." Secondly, the activity must "appear intended (i) to intimidate or coerce a civilian population; (ii) to influence the policy of a government by intimidation or coercion; or (iii) to affect the conduct of a government by mass destruction, assassination. or kidnapping." Finally, the FBI says, the activity must occur "primarily within the territorial jurisdiction" of the United States.

So far, the actions and statements of Black Lives Matter activists and supporters would seem to fit into all of those categories. It's one thing to interrupt and heckle a candidate for office -- that goes with the territory. It's another to openly call for the murder of white people and police officers unless social change is made.
