Our freedoms and our very existence are made possible by the grace of God and by those who serve in uniform. I would not be here today were it not for the Korean war of yesterday. My grandparents grew up in a Korea held captive by the Japanese. Liberation from Japan was shortlived when the Communists decided to invade the south in what we recall now as the Korean War -- the Forgotten War. Were it not for the leadership of America at that pivotal time to intervene, to defy the scourge of communism growing, mold-like over our land, my father would never have found my mother decades later in a free and prosperous South Korea; my family would never have been. I reflect with immense pride and gratitude that we carry on the memories of those who sacrificed everything to make today possible. Both Courtland's grandfather served in Korea, and mine. My grandfather, "Haraboji," was enlisted to fight at 16. I regret immensely his reticence about that time and I treasure everyday, especially on the occasion that I find a Korean war veteran willing to
